Student Centric Teaching Methodologies

Experiential Learning:

The Department has adopted experiential learning as one of the teaching methodologies to expand the learning capabilities of the students. As part of experiential learning, in addition to traditional methods the Department has adopted techniques such as, organising industrial visits, sharing of YouTube links and other information via WhatsApp groups, organizing role play to improve critical thinking and decision making skills among students. Furthermore students learn computer application software such as MS-Office in the computer labs.

Field Trips/Industrial Visits/Educational Tours

Acumen Connect-Field Visit Programme was organized on 9 April, 2019. Around Fifty Four MBAs students and two faculties have visited Aquafina Twin Cities Mineral Waters Pvt. Ltd(Tata Water Plus) at Cherlapally. It was an educational learning practice for the students as it helped in acquiring hands on experience in the Purification Process of water.

An Industrial visit was organized to “TIMES OF INDIA”, printing press situated at Nacharam on 16th March, 2019. Around Fifty Five MBA II semester students and two faculties have visited TOI. It was a knowledgeable experience for the students as they gained practical exposure and were able to connect theory with real practices. Students assimilated knowledge about work procedure, software and machines being used in printing a newspaper.

Role Play as a tool

Students perform role play on different perspectives of a situation. This will encourage them in critical thinking and engage them into the aspects of analysing a situation, describing a situation and concluding on any identified task or situation.

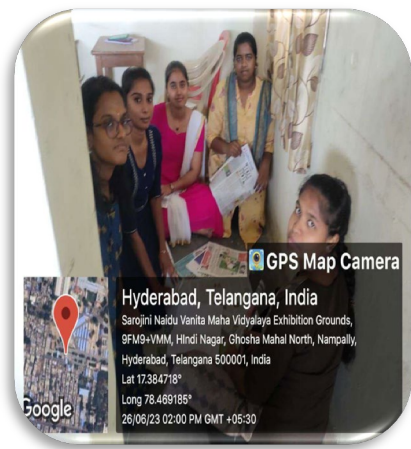

Problem Solving

Students learn to identify, analyse and solve problems by taking up live projects, surveys etc. Students are encouraged to use free online databases (like www.screener.in, www.moneycontrol.com etc.,) in their projects. Faculty guide students in using MS-Excel (along with data-analysis add in) for data tabulation and analysis in their classwork and projects. Case studies and Business games help students to understand, analyse and solve real life challenges. The inquiry based learning method is adopted by some faculty. In this method students are encouraged to identify some problem or issues in the real world and conduct a survey or analyse to understand and present suggestions and recommendations. These methods help in imbibing problem solving skills in students.
